SALES PRODUCED AND ADDRESS OF Latest News.

Mr. Kraska of Edgefield has laid ourselves and the public under infinite obligations by bringing us a Louisville Journal of the 6th inst, coplous extracts from which appear in our columns this morning. Mr. KELSEY left Louisville last Monday, travelled to Bowling Green on a hand car, and thence to Franklin by cars. He heard of no rebels or guerrillas on the whole route. He says the cars will be running from Louisville to Bowling Green in ten days. There are no troops at Louisville except new levies which are coming in.

Sickness.

There is quite a number of cases of flux in the city, especially among children, and as this disease is apt to prevail in this locality during a drought, it may very probably become prevalent now. Our springs and wells are of strong limestone water, and after a protracted drought the water becomes impregnated with particles of lime. Our officers should take especial care to see that their soldiers are provided with wholesome water, as negligence about this matter might sacrifice hundreds of lives.

To Market-Men.

We call the attention of market-men to the following announcement of Mayor SMITH, in reference to their security. MAYOR'S OFFICE,/

NASHVILLE, Oct. 9, 1862. In consequence of the many depredations heretofore committed upon marketers, at the Market House, there will hereafter be placed there for their protection a military guard who will see that their rights of property in the sale of their articles are secured. I have assurance from the Military authorities, and hope that no one will hereafter be deterred from bringing their articles to the Market House. Jao, Huan Smrn, Mayor.

One great difficulty which the government has to encounter in its efforts to conquer the rebellion, is offered by its own adherents. Thousands of patriotic men do not appreciate the obstacles, dangers and uncertainties which beset the path of all civil and military officers, who are brought in close contact with between Hurlburt and Rosecrans. the great conspiracy.

It is easy for us to criticise and condemn a work in which we have not participated, and to censure a policy of only detached portions.

A person ignorant of chemistry, would of two certain deadly poisons; and not until the chemist had combined them ment do this, or that? Why are not suitcertain things done immediately? And proper steps to be taken, about any one the most violent debates and dessensions it is worth. would occur. It is also certain that were the Government to follow the counsels of all its self-constituted advisers it would adopt a new policy every day in the week, each one in direct controvertion to all the others. We must then learn to be patient towards those who have charge of the public affairs, for it is by no means certain that they whose knowledge of affairs must be partial, are better qualified to direct public matters than those whose position affords them an opportunity of being familiar with the miuntize of the business of the Government. Let us be careful to avoid dissension among ourselves, for nothing is now so ardently desired by the ememies

Judging from the kissings and embraces of the rebel prisoners yesterday, we think some of the rebel women must have found a part at least, of their rights.

From Kentucky.

We were gratified yesterday to meet with our old friend, Major Bill Parker, who is just from Lexington, Ky. He confirms the cheering accounts we have lately received as to the feeling of the State being decidedly for the South. Volunicering is going forward for the Confederate service with great rapidity, more than one county having already furnished several regiments. Kentucky will furnish not less than 30,000 under any sircumstances, and by some it is estimamated at least 75,000 fighting men to the Southern army, Chattaneoga Robel.

Bill Parker must be a brother of the man whom the devil kicked out of doors for lying. The best information we have satisfies us that between five and seven thousand recruits, mostly the scum of society, have joined the rebels in Kentucky.

(Correspondence of the Louisville Journal.) From our Advance toward Bardes

CAMP IN THE FIELD, NEAR BARDSTOWN, October 4, 1862.-We are once again on the track of the invader, and it is but a question of time as to their stay in Kentucky. They must leave, or have their army used up completely. We have had daily skirmishes with their rear guard, which invariably skedaddles upon the approach of our advance. I feel prouder for being allowed to assist in driving the rebels out of my netive State than I ber wounded. The rebels fied precipi-otherwise would. It is reported that the tately. Gen. and we are the winners. Our corps, which is the Third, is com-manded by Major-General Gilbert, who so ably conducted the retreat of our forces from Lexington. The General is against Gen. Sill's advancing division. Vehemence creates dislike, excessive mildness contempt; be neither so severe as to be hated, nor so tame as to be hated, nor so tame as to be ina very strict disciplinarian, and slowly all is well and going well, while we have no doubt that Buell's ultimate success will far exceed even the hopes of his most sanguine friends. I saw the gallant old Fourth Division to-day. This is the division which the late General Nelson commanded. I conversed freely with many of the officers, and it is alm at impossible to describe their grief at the loss of their General Said a Major, speaking of him, "He was a rough but a kind man; I never knew bow much I liked him until he left our division," and the Major's sentiment was that of the entire force.

The First and Second Kentucky Regiments are both near us. Colonel Sedgwick says that his men are anxious to meet the for again. It will be remembered that the Second Kentucky has never yet participated in a defeat, while well-contested field.

The Situation in Kentucky.

The information received from our advancing armies in Kentucky is gratify-ing. We learn from Mr. O. P. Myers, who left Bardstown at oine o'clock yesterday morning, that our army arrived at Bardstown on Saturday evening. Gen. Buell and staff passing through that place at half-past eight o'clock yesteday morning, in pursut of Gen. Bragg's fea-

A portion of Gen Crittenden's corps off the Bardstown road in the vicinity of Cox's Creek and made a flank movement by way of Fairfield in direction of Badstown, gaining the turnp'ke in the vicinity of the toll-gate, about two miles this side of Bardstown, on Saturday. At this point a detachment from the Cavalry encountered fifteen hundred Texas cavalcy, and a sharp skirmish on sned. The loss in killed and wounded on both sides was about twenty, the casualties being about equally divided. As the Federal cavalry, were overponered, the rebels succeeded in cutting their way through, and made their escape to Bardstown.

It is said that a portion of two com-panies of Colonel Hobsen's Thirteenth Kentucky infantry, who had been employed as skirmishers, ventured too far from the main army on Friday and were captured by the rebels.

We learn from Mr. Myers and others that Gen. Bragg's forces made a movement from Bardstown toward Louisville on Priday morning, beasting that they would have possession of this city by Saturday evening. They returned to Bardstown, however, on Friday evening and at once commenced the work of eva-cuation. The supply train embraced about six hundred wagens. I'rom the best information we can gain Bragg's army, which left Bardstown on Saturday evening, was composed of sixty-five regiments, which averaged about three hundred mea each, numbering twenty thousand men. The rebet array went off in the direction of Springfield, announcing their determination to make a stand at Mill Creek, four or five miles from Bardstown. It is the impression of our commanding officers, however, that they will fall back through Springfield to Danville, and, in all probability, thence to Camp Dick Robinson

Maj. Watts, of Bardstown, of one of the Kentucky cavalry regiments, was captured by the rebels on Friday, and is now a prisoner. John Rowden, a rebel captain, was captured by our forces on Friday, near Barelay's tavern.

We learn that the robels have committed many depredations on the Bardstown branch of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. It is said that no less than six bridges on the line of the road have been destroyed.

A man named Crouch, who was formerly employed on the Bardstown junction of the Louisvide and Nashville Railroad, is the rebel who took the Federal flag from the Court House at Bardstown and placed the robel flag there. He now has command of a company in
